

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An anti-alias font generator includes a stipple buffer that holds the gradation data of an anti-alias font, a source color register that sets a font display color, and a blender that blends the value of the source color register and the destination color value on the frame memory in accordance with the blend coefficient with the gradation data as the blend coefficient.